The image contains a large grid of 20 columns and 25 rows. The grid lines are composed of small, evenly spaced dots, giving it a dashed or dotted appearance. This type of grid is commonly used for graphing, drawing, or as a template for a spreadsheet. The grid is completely empty and occupies most of the page's width and height.

This image shows a large grid of squares, resembling graph paper. The grid is composed of 20 columns and 30 rows of squares, all defined by dashed lines. The grid is positioned on the left side of the page, with the remaining space on the right being blank white.
